Activity Report – Brian Harvey Lessons Learned Symposium, Ottawa, Oct 19-22, 2003

I attended the LL meeting representing World Fisheries Trust as well as, more generally, the Peixes Pessoas e Aguas project. The meeting served a dual purpose for our project, acting not only as a forum for interchange of experiences with other projects and forming useful connections, but also as a jumping-off point for a number of project partners who would travel to BC after the symposium, in order to take part in an intensive itinerary of training and project management meetings. These people and their organizations included:

- Barbara Johnsen (Prefeitura of Três Marias)
- Inês Mancuso and Ana Thé (UFSCar)
- Raimundo Marques (Federation of Professional Fishermen of Minas)
- Arley Ferreira (Polícia Militar, Minas Gerais)
- Hugo Godinho (PUC Minas)
- Marcelo Coutinho (IEF, Belo Horizonte)

Summary of Meeting Benefits

Initial sessions of the symposium focused on presentations on the Technology Transfer program and its relation to CIDA's development strategy. Feedback from our Brazilian partners indicated that these sessions were highly useful in providing context for our project, and served to clarify a number of issues relating to government priorities that the partners so far understood solely from discussions with WFT and ABC. The fact that ABC was fully represented at the symposium and the ample provision of Portuguese versions of all presentations made this first orientation very useful. A very important outcome of the meeting was the opportunity for our project partners to meet personally with representatives of CIDA and ABC; so far, only core members of the project management group had had this opportunity. Partners were also able to meet with members of the diplomatic corps from both Canada and Brazil.

Two important presentations were on CIDA's draft programming framework for Brazil and on the consultant review of the Technology Transfer program. Working Groups on Community Development, Governance, Gender Equality, Health, Education, Equity Promotion, Sustainability and Collaboration were active during the next two days, and the rotation between groups allowed partners to contribute to cross-fertilization of ideas. I noticed that a number of partners (including partners in projects other than ours) responded very favourably to this approach, and suspect it is an excellent strategy for breaking down communications barriers between sectors and stakeholders. This was certainly a theme that the subsequent visit to BC was modeled around. In this regard, inclusion of the Fisheries Federation was critical both for the Lessons Learned Symposium and during the subsequent technical visit to BC.

Networking and information sharing was enhanced by the Information Fair that allowed our project to showcase its objectives and achievements while forging links with other projects. Links of special value to our project were solidified with the UBC Watershed project, including identification of a potential Canadian intern (an initiative being actively pursued).

Post-meeting Activities

Following the conference, I was able to visit IDRC in Ottawa to promote the linkage between the CIDA project and the IDRC-funded IARA project. I then accompanied Brazilian partners to Vancouver for the technical stage of their visit.
